URSINUS COLLEGE.

URSINUS COLLEGE was founded under a liberal charter, obtained from the Legislature of Pennsylvania in February, 1869, and was formally opened on the first Monday in September, 1870. Its general aim and purpose are essentially those of other educational institutions, devoted to the higher branches of learning upon the basis of Christianity, and with chief regard to religious ends. But it owes its establishment more especially to the desire of its founders to secure those ends by methods in full harmony with evangelical Protestant principles of faith and practice. Peculiar ecclesiastical movements and philosophical tendencies then zealously advocated were believed to demand an Institution which should positively maintain those principles and unequivocally employ those methods.

Ruled by this conviction and purpose, the founders of the School chose as its appropriate name that of one of the most distinguished Reformers and scholars of the sixteenth century. Ursinus, the renowned theologian of the Palatinate, Germany, under Frederick II., and principal author of the Heidelberg Catechism, and of other masterly works in defence of Apostolic truth, will ever be held in honored remembrance, as a most worthy representative of eminent learning consecrated to the service of pure Christianity.

Whilst a majority of the founders and Directors of Ursinus College are members of the Reformed Church, the Institution is in no narrow sense sectarian, though it is avowedly and positively evangelical Protestant in distinction from every phase of Romanism and infidelity. In this respect it claims to be a legitimate product of strong, unshaken confidence in the principles and faith of Apostolic Christianity, revived in the Reformation, as comprehending the purest system of truth and morality, as the bearer and advocate of the best form of philosophy and modern civilization, and as affording the most favorable means for the development and culture of man. Ursinus College is therefore pledged most solemnly to sincere co-operation with all institutions of learning founded on a similar basis, and animated by a kindred purpose, in their educational efforts to serve the same holy cause.

Its history during the decennial period commemorated by the issue of the present catalogue, although marked by peculiar trials, has also been made notable by cheering success. Like other similar institutions, begun in poverty, with a reputation to be made, and patronage to be won in a field to some extent pre-occupied, it had to contend with the difficulties usually incidental to such undertakings. But besides this it has had to maintain its existence and prosecute its work in the face of antagonisms not always generous, and by surmounting obstacles which should not have been put in its way. All such adversities, however, were overruled for good to the cause it labored to serve. By the signal favor of the Lord, by the commendable self denial of those upon whom the burden of trials and toils chiefly rested, and by the firm and liberal support of many resolute and faithful friends, the summing up of the first ten years' efforts shows results well calculated to inspire joyful gratitude and courageous hope. They prove most clearly that the work begun under the promptings of intelligent convictions of the necessity for it, and an honest zeal to meet its demands, has been so far effectively done.

Of this, to specify no other evidence, the large number of young men for a longer or shorter period under the training influences of the School, the fair list of Alumni, and the notably large number educated for the Christian ministry and now actively engaged in its important duties, furnish highly satisfactory proofs. To have been instrumental in supplying the churches with fifty-two laborers in the vineyard, and other professions and pursuits with a proportionate number of worthy incumbents, surely justifies a pleasant conviction that Ursinus College has not toiled during these ten years in vain. And all this has been accomplished at a cost so far below the usual expenses of such work, as to be a matter of surprise to all acquainted with the financial history of the school.

To meet new educational demands as they arose, the original courses of study have been improved by some modifications and additions. First, a Scientific Course was provided with special reference to the professions chosen by some of the students. More recently a Normal Course has been included under the general curriculum for the benefit of such as wished to fit themselves for the important work of teaching. The liberal advantages offered by both these special courses may be estimated by reference to the schedule of studies prescribed for them.

From this it may be seen that the Institution, as now organized, offers strong inducements to all desirous of being duly equipped for any worthy calling in life. But it is desired to emphasize its aim to give chief prominence to the moral and religious element of education as of supreme value. Without true views of life itself, and right principles for its government, the acquisitions of learning only increase man's power for evil.

Convinced more fully by the experiences of the decade past of the correctness of the purposes and principles for which and upon which Ursinus College was established, and encouraged by the good results achieved, it will endeavor resolutely to persevere in the line of work, and methods of pursuing it, adopted from the start. And in doing so it will continue to look above all to the blessing of God upon its efforts, and under this to that liberal and hearty sympathy and aid of friends on which every similar school is largely dependent for success.

The institution comprehends an Academic or Preparatory Department, and the College proper. The former serves at the same time as a first-class English Mathematical and Classical Boarding School for young men. A Theological Department has been added for the benefit of those who may desire to prepare themselves for the Gospel Ministry.

In its General System of Education, Ursinus College endeavors to meet the wants of the age, by adopting a wise and healthy medium between the abstract-ideal and materialistic-utilitarian theories. The best illustration of its aim, in this respect, will be found in the prescribed course of studies.

THE LOCATION

Of the institution is in a healthy and beautiful region, amidst a community distinguished for moral and social virtues, and free from outward temptations to vice. The place is easy of access, being within a few minutes' walk of Collegeville Station, on the Perkiomen Railway. This railway connects the East Penna. Railway at Allentown with the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at Perkiomen Junction.

BUILDINGS, GROUNDS, ETC.

The edifice occupied by the college is built of stone, and was erected with immediate reference to its present use. The adjoining grounds, comprising a lawn of eight acres, beautifully diversified with shade trees and shrubbery, are laid out both with regard to utility and ornament, and afford ample space for recreation and healthful exercise. A large additional building has been erected for the special use of the Collegiate Department.

INTERNAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The internal arrangements of the establishment are complete and admirably adapted to their purposes. The refectory, dormitories, study halls, class-rooms and other apartments are spacious, airy, and well provided with every requisite for the health and comfort of the student.

The Domestic Department is under the immediate supervision of the Faculty, giving to the household, so far as possible, the character of a well ordered Christian family.

TERMS OF ADMISSION TO THE COLLEGE.

Applicants for admission into the Freshman Class must be qualified for examination in English Grammar, Arithmetic, Elementary Algebra, Geography, Latin and Greek Grammar, Cæsar's Commentaries (four books), Virgil's Æneid (four books), Cicero's Orations, Arnold's Latin Prose (twelve chapters), Greek Lessons, Xenophon's Anabasis (two books), and in one of the Gospels in Greek, or their equivalent. For the higher classes, candidates must be qualified for examination in the studies of the preceding years of the course, or their equivalent.

Examinations for admissions will be held at the opening of the Fall Term, and on the day following the Annual Commencement.

Testimonials of good moral character are in every case required; and students coming from other colleges must produce certificates of dismissal in good standing.

No student is regarded a regular member of the college until he has been matriculated, after a probation of six months ; he is however, meanwhile subject to the laws of the college.

SCHOLASTIC REGULATIONS.

In the college, each class has at least three exercises daily in the branches of study prescribed in the course.

In the Academic and Collegiate Departments an ACCURATE RECORD is kept of the Scholarship and Department of each student. The highest mark is 10. Inferior merit is graded down to 1. Failure is marked 0. At the end of each term the average standing of each student, determined by his marks, is sent to his parents or guardian.

EXAMINATIONS of the several classes are held at the close of each term, to ascertain the measure of progress of each student, and determine his claims to advancement to a higher class.

BIBLICAL INSTRUCTIONS are statedly given, as part of the regular course of study. Every student is required to take part in these Biblical studies.

As indicated in the course of study, particular attention is given to proficiency in the chief parts of an English education, orthography, reading, composition and rhetoric.

Each student is frequently exercised in these elementary but greatly neglected branches.

The students board and room in the college buildings under the direct supervision of the Faculty. Exceptions to this rule are made in the case of pupils or students residing in the vicinity of the college, and in other cases, at the discretion of the Faculty. All such students, however, are subject to the general discipline of the institution.

The discipline of the institution is Christian and parental. No special injunctions or prohibitions need be detailed. The students are treated as gentlemen and expected to conduct themselves accordingly. Every proper liberty is allowed, and no arbitrary or oppressive restraints are imposed. Violations of decorum and good order, however, incur prompt and decisive penalties. The honor of the institution, and the peace and comfort of those connected with it, cannot be disregarded with impunity.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon matriculated students who have completed the full course of instruction in the college.

The degree of Bachelor of Science is conferred upon students who have completed the three-year Scientific course.

The degree of Master of Arts is conferred upon graduates who have been engaged in literary or scientific pursuits at least three years after graduation, and who have, meanwhile, sustained a good moral character.

For like reasons the degree of Master of Science is conferred upon graduates in the Scientific course.

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon all collegiate graduates who have taken a full course in the Theological Department.

The graduate who is entitled to the degree of Master of Arts, or Master of Science, or Bachelor of Divinity, must make application for the same in writing to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees.

No diploma will be issued until the requisite fee of five dollars shall have been paid into the Treasury.

RELIGION.

In proper harmony with the principles of Evangelical Christianity upon which this institution is founded, and to the service of which it is consecrated, the Faculty regard it as their highest duty to give faithful attention to the religious interests of the students under their care, and to labor for their spiritual welfare. This is done in no sectarian spirit, but in full accordance with an enlarged charity which recognizes the claims of all branches of the Evangelical Protestant Church, as the only legitimate representative of Christian Catholicity. The scholastic duties of each day are opened and closed with suitable devotions, which every student is required to attend. All the students are required also to attend worship on the Lord's day, either in the chapel of the college or in some adjacent church.

Whilst the College is not under any formal Ecclesiastical or Synodical control, it has the approval and endorsement of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in the United States; and those also of the Eastern District Synod of the Church, by the following resolution: "Resolved, That this Synod has learned with pleasure that Ursinus College is successfully prosecuting its educational work, and commends it to the favorable consideration of the Church."

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

For the mutual improvement of the students, three Literary Societies exist, and are maintained with commendable zeal, the Zwinglian, the Schaff, and the Goethean (German). The first two have good libraries for general reading.

LIBRARIES.

The Library of the College is yet in its incipiency. But the private libraries of the Faculty are always accessible for reference, thus making the whole number of volumes available for use about 10,000. This total includes the valuable gift of many standard theological works from the collection of REV. WILLIAM A. GOOD, of cherished memory, kindly presented to the college by Mrs. Susan B. Good, of Reading.

THE ACADEMIC YEAR

Is divided into three terms. The calendar for the present year is as follows:

The Fall Term commences on Monday, September 5th, and continues 16 weeks, ending December 22d.

The Winter Term commences January 9th, 1882, and ends March 30th.

The Spring term commencing April 10th, 1882, ends with Commencement Day, June 29th, 1882.

EXPENSES.

The charges for tuition in the Academic Department are : for the Fall Term, $16 ; for the Winter Term, $12 ; and for the Spring Term, $12.

Pupils in the common English Branches are charged : for the Fall Term, $11 ; and for the Winter and Spring Terms, $8 each. Incidental expenses, for academic, Fall and Winter Terms, $2 each ; Spring Term, $1.

In the Collegiate Department, for the Fall Term, $20 ; Winter Term, $14 ; and for the Spring Term, $14. Incidental expenses for collegian, $7 a year.

The charge for Boarding and Room, $3.50 per week, or $140 a year. Fire and light extra. Washing, 50 cents a dozen. Students will furnish their own towels and lamps.

The regular expenses for the whole year for boarding students, exclusive of fire, light, books and stationery, amount to but $187 in the Academic, or $195 in the Collegiate Department.

The Tuition Fee must be paid at the commencement of each term. The bill for Boarding must be paid one-half in advance, and the other half at the middle of each term.

Students are not received for a period less than six weeks.

Students desiring instructions in vocal or instrumental music can be provided for on special terms.

Those occupying the private rooms of the college will be held responsible for any damage done to them or the furniture.

No deduction from the regular charges is made for absences, except in cases of protracted illness.

N. B.—For special information apply to the President J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., Collegeville P. O., Freeland, Montgomery County, Pa.
